Adjust driving to meet road conditions

A log truck driver skidded when turning a corner on an ice-covered road. He lost control of his truck and the truck slammed head-on into an embankment. The force of the truck hitting the embankment drove part of the load through the truck's bulkhead. The driver was fatally crushed inside the cab by one of the logs that came through the bulkhead.

Safe work practices:

- When driving on roads made slippery by ice or other factors, adjust your driving techniques and speed to meet road conditions.
